

personal knowledge graphs

great in theory, but how to make it work for me?

Today's Agenda

1 Introduction: Mindmaps to KGs

2 Framework for thinking PKGs

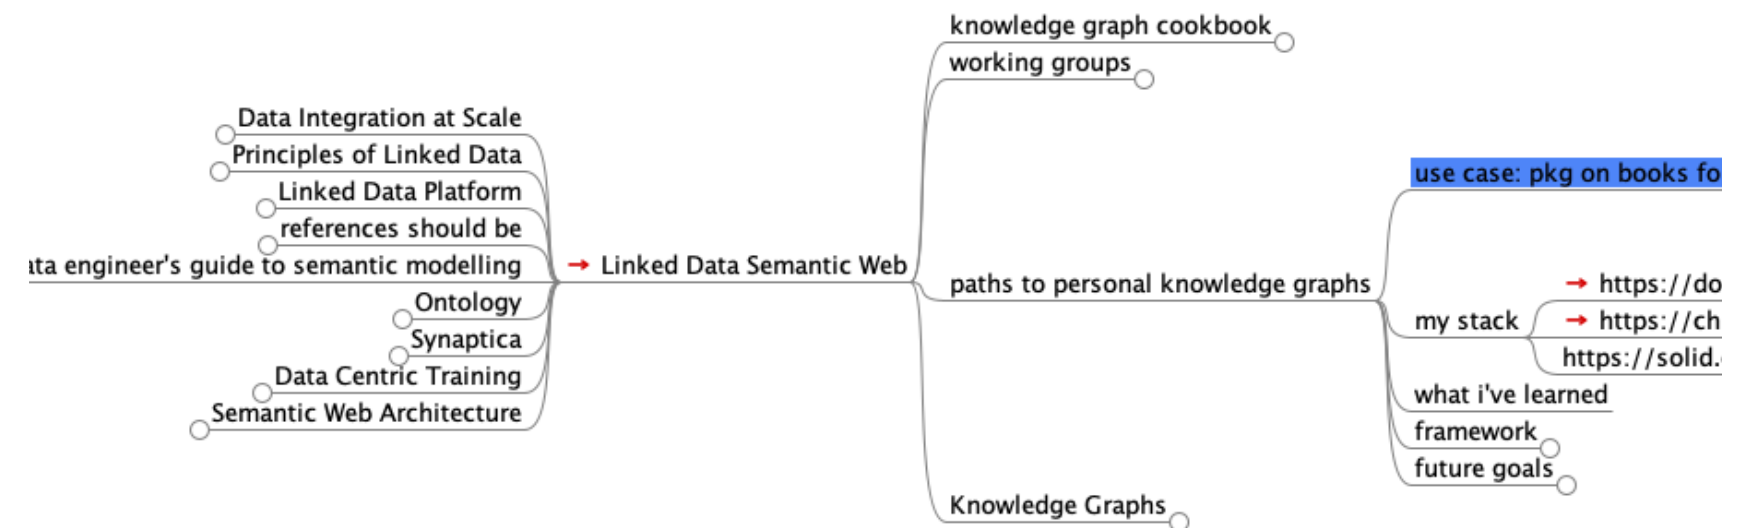

3 My Use Case

4 Future Goals

Introduction

As a knowledge worker, i need a personal knowledge management system to REALLY get things done

Mindmaps solved that problem for a long time, but weren't as useful for resharing that knowledge or reusing it.

framework for PKGs

<https://github.com/ceteri/pkg>

My Use Case: Book lists

aggregate content for each area i'm learning or researching about content areas

1. Product
2. Management
3. Psychology
4. Creativity
5. Data
6. Systems
7. Information
8. Maps
9. Geospatial

types

books
book lists
research papers quotes screenshots of quotes

needs

publishing referencing
open discussion

SOLID

<https://solidproject.org/>

Identity & Identification

Authentication

Authorization

Storage

Future goals

NOW

Add to personal Website

SOON

Add picture
content: wall
of quotes

FUTURE

implement for organization